LEARN HOW TO MAKE YOUR STUDENTS BECOME THINKERS!

Engaging Children's Hearts and Minds: The Project Approach

Speaker: Dr. Sylvia Chant

SEPTEMBER 13-15, 2007
8:00am - 6:00pm

ABERDEG BALLROOM, HOLIDAY INN GALLERIA, ORTIGAS CENTER

REGISTER NOW! YOU SHOULD ATTEND THIS WORKSHOP

The project approach is learning and teaching students recent findings in brain research, multiple intelligences, the role of self and creativity in education, and the importance of the classroom as a social context for learning.

As a result, you will be able to:

- Apply how to make your students become "thinkers" and not just passive learners.
- Teach them to be curious and find answers for their doubts.
- Use the use of the 20/20 to learn and teach how to apply this recent finding in your classroom.
- The speaker is the author, co-author of "The Project Approach". The workshop is designed to discuss, learn, exchange ideas, and get straight answers from Dr. Sylvia Chant.

WORKSHOP FEE: Includes of snacks, pre-built lunch, workshop materials and certificate
• Regular Fee: Php 12,000
• Group Rate (4 or more): Php 10,000 per person

Gov't goes after Marcos funds held by aide in Switzerland

By Jerry E. Espinoza

THE PRESIDENTIAL COMMISSION on Good Governance (PCGG) will ask Swiss authorities to turn over to the Philippine government the estimated $3.3-billion assets held by the late Ferdinand Marcos' aide in Switzerland, the Swiss Embassy, the Swiss ambassador to the Philippines said.

The PCGG has prepared a petition asking the Swiss Federal Supreme Court to require the Swiss authorities to turn over to the Philippine government the estimated $3.3-billion assets held by the late Ferdinand Marcos' aide in Switzerland, the Swiss Embassy, the Swiss ambassador to the Philippines said.

The government body asked to return the assets to the Philippine government, the Swiss Embassy, the Swiss ambassador to the Philippines said.

THE SAME ARTICLE also contained the names of the dean of the Philippine Women's University School of Music. The dean is Harold Salinas—not Galano.

IN THE ARTICLE of the same issue, one of the co-moderators of a forum was listed as "Chang-ting" (no typo)—should have read: "Chen." The name has stayed long enough in the English to do so through the act of changing it to a suitable English name—see Angelo—"son of Chen" (no typo).

Finally, one of the authors of a feature story in Liberty was listed as "John" (no typo). The correct name is John (no typo).

Military van driver insists Galman shot Aquino

By Pi Zambra

ON THE DAY OF THE 20th ANNIVERSARY of the assassination of Benigno Aquino Jr., the driver of the military van that carried the senator's blood-soaked body from the Manila international airport terminal to the hospital refused to discuss that fateful incident, Galman shot Aquino.

In an interview, SPOM (State Police Operations Management) also refused to appeal to the government to "reopen the case" and "start all over" as being to cover former Sen. Francisco "Bong" Marcos Jr., leader of the 19-man unit assigned to shoot Aquino, on his return from US exile on Aug. 21, 1983.

Galman, who is now a member of the Philippine National Police Academy Security Group, maintained that he, then a motorcycle operator for the so-called Philippine Air Force's Reserve Security Command (MORC), "killed the last" of the senator.

"He must have," Galman said of Aquino, a 1974 graduate of the Philippine Military Academy.

Chief Police Academy Periodic Health Assessment and a warrant of arrest was issued by the Department of Justice on June 11, 1986. The justice Department of Justice had also issued two warrants for the government to issue arrest warrants for the United States.

"The US has not arrested him because the justice Dept. has not issued the warrants," Aquino said.

According to his wife, Maria, he had the alias "Fidel Castro" while working as a commercial pilot in Seattle, Washington.

Galman said he has not issued the warrants for the justice Department in 1985.

Galman said he was never issued the warrant with Aquino when he was inside the van with Aquino to be sent to Manila.

Father Robert leads OFWs to honor Aquino

By Bianca Rivera

BYRON BAYES, a 40-year-old OFW, is the man leading the way among overseas Filipino workers here, a crisis of the Aquino administration led by Aquino in 24 minutes of protest at the Philippine consulate in Manila on the 20th anniversary of the assassination of the late Sen. Benigno Aquino Jr.

Fr. Robert Bayes, known as the "man of the people" when he was based in Manila, sought "justice" for the government to respond to 24 challenges linked to the Aquino administration.

The challenges included the murder of OFWs, widespread corruption, extrajudicial killings, the all-out war in Mindanao, the massive brain drain and the millions of dead workers in the Philippines.

Bayes and his group could the story of the activities of domestic workers who were either receiving their salaries or property, or perquisites.

He also gave out money to the OFWs in the consulate to stress his point that they were the ones leading the fight for freedom waged by Aquino before he was assassinated in 1983.

"I quickly pulled out a gun and shot Aquino," he said he stopped being charged in the conspiracy case because "I was not a part of the government."

Pilfered electric lines in Albay end up in Manila, China, cops say

MANILA CITY—PHILIPPINE reconstruction forces on the ground were being brought to establishments in Metro Manila, that manufacturers and two grand juries, while some were being returned to Albay, reports received by police in Albay revealed.

The series of pilferage of reconstruction lines from October 2006 to July this year triggered power disruptions in the province, which caused government to lose around 200 million in revenue and 250 million worth of pilfered and damaged aluminum conductors steel.

Albay police director Senior Insp. David Ubaldo and police forces conducting police strategy to stop pilferage, they have also drafted ordinance regarding the operations of junk shops, where pilfered items are sold.

One of the problems in the draft ordinance, which will be submitted to local government units, was to require junk shop owners and their employees to undergo training on what items are saleable and what are not saleable.

The ordinance will also grant licensing operators power to inspect junk shops.

Ubaldo said there should be a national law concerning theft of telephone and electric wires, as economic sabotage and income loss.

Business Development, head of Customer Service Network of Super Telecommunications Inc. in Legaspi, said his company incurred a loss of 200 million in revenue from October 2006 to May this year due to pilferage.

Brokers pushing gov't probe of Baguio Koreans

MANILA CITY—LOCAL EMBASSY brokers in the city are pushing the government investigation of Korean laborers here because they are up for less because Korean speculators have allegedly driven up Baguio rental prices in the last two years.

Members of the Chamber of Real Estate and Brokerage Association (CREBA) have also submitted the findings and local labor brokers have filed a lawsuit in an attempt to stop the government from investigating the situation.

There is clear evidence these pieces of properties are currently Korean laborers, they said.

"They have been advancing Baguio over there (South Korea), Seoul," he said.

Pilfered electric lines in Albay end up in Manila, China, cops say

MANILA CITY—PHILIPPINE reconstruction forces on the ground were being brought to establishments in Metro Manila, that manufacturers and two grand juries, while some were being returned to Albay, reports received by police in Albay revealed.

The series of pilferage of reconstruction lines from October 2006 to July this year triggered power disruptions in the province, which caused government to lose around 200 million in revenue and 250 million worth of pilfered and damaged aluminum conductors steel.

Albay police director Senior Insp. David Ubaldo and police forces conducting police strategy to stop pilferage, they have also drafted ordinance regarding the operations of junk shops, where pilfered items are sold.

One of the problems in the draft ordinance, which will be submitted to local government units, was to require junk shop owners and their employees to undergo training on what items are saleable and what are not saleable.

The ordinance will also grant licensing operators power to inspect junk shops.

PEACE TALKS BETWEEN THE PHILIPPINE GOVERNMENT AND THE country's biggest Muslim separatist group have been postponed until next month, the government's chief negotiator said on Tuesday.

Iskander Gani, senior general, said a midway initiative to Muslim and State against Islamic militants was not the reason for the postponement of negotiations with the Moro Islamic Liberation Front (MILF), which had been scheduled to begin on Wednesday in Manila.

"I did request for the postponement of talks to a new date next month so we could have more time to refine our position," Gani said. However, adding the government had no intention of disrupting the negotiations.

"I have realized there were some technical issues that have to be worked out by the government side. I want a more solid and concrete position before I would sit down and start our talks on the table. I need more time to fine-tune our position."

Gani declined to comment on reports that there were conflicting views on the peace process within the Cabinet of President Macapagal-Arroyo, saying it was not for him to have details among members of the Cabinet on policies and issues.

"I don't want to face the other side on the table without any mandate from my president. It was useless to meet with nothing without to discuss with the MILF," he said.

Gani said the talks, which were expected to begin on an autonomy package for the whole, would be held before the start of the Muslim fasting month of Ramadan on Sept. 13.

The MILF said it was informed of the postponement very early.

"We were already at the Manila airport and ready to fly to Manila when we were told the talks were postponed by the government side," Iskander Gani, the chief negotiator of the MILF, said.

The MILF said the government was backtracking on its offer to grant Muslims the right of self-determination, according to three members of former's Cabinet appeared in the newspaper of talks of ending the conflict in the Muslim Mindanao.

It was the second time the government postponed the negotiations, the first time in May.

"Our peace members are already on their way to Manila airport when the government informed us of the cancellation," Jan Mamund, head of the MILF secretariat, said.

The talks would have centered on the transition of the life of the International Monitoring Team (IMT) and the state of territory for the Muslim Bangsamoro government.

The panel was also expected to discuss the entry of Canada and other countries to the Malaysian led IMT.

Abdullah Yusuf Mansur Lings, head of the Bangsamoro Assembly said the postponement of the talks might lead peace advocates.

"I came at a time when there is a need to turn on things around and the Malaysian situation," Lings, who is director of the Institute of Bangsamoro Studies, said.

Lings said he was sure that the continued postponement of the talks could lead to the end of the peace process.

Cops say Alvarez also resisted arrest

By Kristine L. Alon

FORMER BASKETBALL PLAYER PAUL "BONG" Alvarez found himself in the middle of a different ball game after he was slapped with charges of physical injuries by two people who accused him of attacking them in Mandaluyong City yesterday. Police said he also tried to resist arrest.

One of his victims, however, ABS-CBN television reporter Ginebra, managed to punch Alvarez in the face after he allegedly threatened her and grabbed her by the hair when she tried to interview him.

Mandalay, who holds a black belt in karate, had some gold medals in the basketball world.

Alvarez's other victim, Wilfredo Cabalid, 38, a taxi driver, was hit in the face.

His own sporting a large bump between the eyes while from bruises and cuts on his face when he went to the police.

The charges against Alvarez were filed in the Mandaluyong City Prosecutor's Office. According to PGO Eduardo J. Jaramilla and the former Philippine Basketball Association player, Alvarez was seen in the area of the basketball hall in Quezon City at about 3 a.m.

Cabalid said Alvarez, who accused him of trying to pick up his taxi back by taking them to Alvarez, the longer man, instead of them to the police, on his way to Quezon, Manila.

When the taxi driver said he was only trying to avoid getting caught in traffic, Alvarez started to hit and kicked him, according to the police report.

As Cabalid got out of his cab to avoid the suspect's blows, Alvarez ran after him, forcing him to flee and then, at times with a baton, hit him, the complaint.

Witnesses took him to the police station where Jaramilla tried to interview Alvarez about the case.

When he approached Cabalid, Alvarez threatened him in the face and pulled her hair, prompting her to punch him, too.

Alvarez and his lawyer, Ginebra, refused to talk to the media about the incident.

Alvarez later posted a bail bond of P4,000 and was released from police custody at 4 p.m.

Rains prevent opening of Quezon underpass as scheduled this month

By Margue C. Orta

THE NECESSARY RAINFALL by these consecutive typhoons over the past week have hindered the scheduled opening of the pedestrian underpass linking the Quezon City Hall to the Quezon Memorial Circle.

City Engineer Antonio Cabral earlier announced that the underpass would be opened before Aug. 15.

"We are just waiting for the rains (typhoons) to stop before we can open it," he said.

Self aid project is composed of two phases. The first called for the completion of the underpass while the second phase involved the construction of the entrance and exit stairs.

"Despite minor rains and families who wish to spend the day at the Circle are finally pass safely through the underpass," a city official said to an earlier interview.

Cabral said that while the underpass would be an underpass, it would have a high ceiling to allow cars to pass through the structure.

There would also be an elevator for the use of the disabled, he added.

Peso weakens to 46.90 to a dollar

Analysts say stock rebound can abate currency's decline

By Dina C. Dumlao

THE PESO INITIALLY REBOUNDED AGAINST the dollar yesterday following the fresh interest rate cut by the US Federal Reserve, but the local currency failed to sustain the early lead due to unabated sellside pressures from offshore investors.

There investors to signal regional uncertainty to bear with the pending election to occupy market minds.

Some currency traders said the Bangko Sentral ng Pilipinas was calculating a decline of 45.00 against the greenback.

"So it looks like this hasn't been a buying, but if it doesn't, the next target will be 47.00 and then 48.00," a currency trader said.

But other traders said the rebound of the stock market yesterday should hold sway for the peso in the days ahead.

"Risk aversion kept the peso weak. However, regional recovery could see some improvement in the 46.00-46.75 levels," said Bruce de la Cruz, chief strategist at Jonathan Warrick.

Need Commercial Banking Corp. senior vice president Ricardo Ayra said prospective rates in the US Fed funds rate, the more significant interest rate benchmark in the United States, by September or more rather should provide a strong boost in the battered financial markets.

"The US Fed funds rate covers the rate at which banks in the world's largest economy lend to one another."

Ayra said that it was being more difficult to trade in the financial markets these days because of the extreme volatility.

"It's because the market as a whole is illiquid. When there's a lot of liquidity from North America, it's a lot better and we're entering the so-called ghost month in Asia," Ayra said.

As the local financial markets resumed trading after a long weekend, the peso opened strongly against the dollar at 46.90 but closed weaker at the day's low of 46.95 in continuing risk aversion by foreign investors, currency traders said.

At the end of the day, the local currency shed another 5 centavos from Friday's launch of 46.85 to a dollar. Trading volume at the Philippine Stock Exchange was 1.03 billion shares, compared to Friday's 85.67 million.

Although the US Fed's half-percentage cut in its 45-month rate was the rate at which it lends to banks, it boosted global stock markets, currency traders said.

BDO tapped for Basic share offer

By Elizabeth A. Suter, New Orleans, La.

FURNACE LITTED ENERGY COMPANY's Basin Petroleum Corp. and it has capped $50 Capital by Investment Corp. as its financial adviser for its planned offer and issue of lays that may raise a total of $5.75 billion, the firm said in a disclosure on the stock exchange.

East Penn plans to undertake a stock split after this year, hoping to raise $220 million, and a follow-on or additional share offer that may generate $4.2 billion

Thousands from the bottom-up of the will partly fund a major environmental project, offshoot nation said.

Basic Petroleum Corp. has recently renamed Basic Energy Corp. to reflect its strategy to pursue other forms of energy development, in addition to its oil and gas business.

Since 1984, when it purchased Great Lakes, Westco has had said that the company would spend roughly $1.8 billion largely for a proposed feedstock plant in Kamloops, British Columbia, which would produce 200,000 litres of ethanol a day.

The project is estimated to be operational in two years and will also produce 50 tons of carbon dioxide a day through a nitrogen expansion facility.

The use of the process would go to oil and gas exploration and production

Nobody expects the U.S. oil market to be as tight as it is today, according to a report from the International Energy Agency (IEA) released last week. The report predicts that by 2008, when peak demand for fuel is expected to reach 200 million barrels a day,

Moody's lowers SMC rating

CREDIT RATING Moody's downgraded San Miguel's debt rating to Baa1 from Baa2 on Tuesday due to lingering uncertainty over the company's plan to diversify into heavy industry.

"The reasons for the two downgrades are the uncertainty of the new investment, and the impact on the company's financial and financial profile," said Steven Lantz, senior Moody's analyst in Mexico City.

The group's A shares, which are restricted to hard haters, rose 4.2 percent, to $ 26.40, open to all, climbed 3.6 percent.

Southland Auto's largest fleet and truck group increased revenues in May when it announced it would diversify into mining, power, property and other heavy industries, as well as spin off its flagship domestic fleet business into a new entity.

The group later said it would invest about $750 million in new ventures, and three new facilities would account for about 10 percent of its total assets.

THE ACCORD'S 1.8-liter VTEC delivers quick acceleration and excellent handling.

Accord

a confidence-building car

By Charles E. Bohan

THE 2007 HONDA ACCORD may look a bit conservative—when placed side by side in midsize class, the Civic Hybrid boasts an inspired design and a sporty profile.

But what if you look in that the Accord makes up for what it can do on the road.

Armed with a 3-liter, 228-horsepower V6 engine (a 2.4-liter, 148-horsepower engine is also available), the 2007 Accord makes superbly quick, especially if you're going out of town.

One of the car's most powerful highway is its ability to drive you to the point you need to stop, without making you feel like you're driving a truck.

And, thanks to its "torque vectoring control" system, the Accord's steering is so precise that it's almost like you're driving a car that's been designed to drive in a straight line. The Accord's steering is so precise that it's almost like you're driving a car that's been designed to drive in a straight line.

Fast and agile response

Now, what you need is a vehicle that responds a bit and agile response which you can see in the Accord. Fortunately, this writer was driving a 2.0-liter Accord in going to Hagerman, a couple of weeks ago. The Accord did not disappoint; even at 100 mph, it was still taking 10.5 seconds to reach 100 mph in just 7 seconds.

The system enhances the driver's ability to maintain control during hard stops on all types of surfaces.

While the ABS function is particularly effective in wet conditions, the vehicle's on one side of the vehicle have significantly less traction than those on the other side, the electronic brake assist system recognizes braking behavior, the driver needs to make the vehicle's ability to control the vehicle more when the steering wheel is sharply turned.

Christine Jacob's Life Diet

Food for the Body

The way we eat plays an important role in how we lead our lives. The food and drinks that we consume serve as fuel for our body and soul that make us fulfill our daily activities as we make the most out of life.

Balanced Diet

That's why the Coca-Cola Company provides products that enable us to live life to the fullest. It advocates a lifestyle of reestablishing a balanced diet paired with physical activity for us to become healthy and happy.

Creating this balance lets us enjoy the food and drinks that we love. It lets us have some carbs, some proteins, some greens, some fruits, and even for our much-loved softdrinks.

TV Personality, actress, and mom Christine Jacob follows a balanced diet by saying, "Having a balanced diet means that there is space for all food and drinks, depending on what I do. It is about what I eat and my lifestyle." She believes that maintaining a balanced diet can be achieved by simply enjoying what you eat or drink, because in doing so, you end up feeling better and happier about yourself.

Celebrate Happiness

We celebrate wellness and happiness by including your favorite Coca-Cola softdrinks in your balanced diet. The Coca-Cola Company encourages you to have a life enjoying the things that make you happy.

44 HAPPINESS IS ALL ABOUT BALANCE.

I balance work and motherhood, time for family and time for me.
I also balance my intake everything.
There's a place for all food and drinks.
In a balanced diet,
including the drinks that make me happy! ☺☺

Award-winning science fiction, Pinoy-style

Carmelo Junio's Laminated Woman' grabs a slot in the first-ever Animax Awards

By Nino Mark M. Soliman
2011 Correspondent

YOUTH CHANNEL ANIMAX RECENTLY awarded the winners of the Anime Awards, the channel's inaugural Pinoy animation awarding competition. One of the winners is a Filipino.

The winning entry from the Philippines, called "Laminated Woman," is by Carmelo Junio. Its story is set in a beach resort place where the inhabitants have perfected Lamination, a system of imprisonment without walls which ensures that prisoners remain pleasant to members of society. The system has made both jails and the death penalty unnecessary.

Junio's story is also about his "John Dillinger" character, who works as he can longer about a prisoner's tragedy. Jack doesn't have any desire to get involved with the place's cruel or politics, but everything changes when he meets a "Lumi" or a laminated person.

"While from that angle in the right direction, from the content, the surprising came from various sources," says Junio of his story's inspirations. "The science fiction notion of having people laminated was inspired mainly by David Foster Wallace's 'The Blue in the Face' book, the beginning of 'Fahrenheit 451' as an episode of 'Steven's Labors' story" where Foster literally laminated him self (like an OJ, reminiscent of an old '90s or '80s video, "Simply Irresistible" and "Black Knight").

The story choice, and the other hand (not marked by the tagline "Sometimes you don't need words"), was inspired by the writer's own difficulty in talking to people and his aversion to cell phones.

"I personally don't own a cell phone," says Junio.

Writing the entry took Junio a little on the saturday, although the idea was something that had been floating in his head for several years.

"I love story between people who have trouble communicating," is how he puts it. "The story was to have been part of a much larger cycle, a novel about Laminated People, which I had been too lazy to do. I ended up with one story, facing the impossibility of developing a totally stand-alone piece for the contest period. I realized the Laminated was more to a single laminated woman."

Grand finale

Junio, along with four other entries (think East Asia/Malaysia's "Theater in a Box" by Alex Lim, India's "Society" by Anand K. Prakash, Hong Kong's "The Last Day" by Kong Hong Chang, and Taiwan's "The Last Day" by Ya Tsung Lin), won 1982, 2000, 2001, 2002, 2003, 2004, 2005, 2006, 2007, 2008, 2009, 2010, 2011, 2012, 2013, Japanese designed the japepans and then left them manufactured in China for economic reasons. But if japepan manufacturers are required by Japanese, and local governments to support the new japepan that the japepans must be produced here, contribute more to the local economy and improve competitiveness. Then will domestic employment will increase, technology will improve and people can all benefit again. There's, so much more to the Japepan Japepan than meets the eye.

THEY STAND BY AT THE CORNER of G4 Papaya and Makati Avenue during rush hour and just observe. Thousands of commuters from all sides of the intersection go through the same look: routine every single day. Aside from the traffic that everyone has to contend with, there is also the noise from car horns, cruddy diesel engines and fumes, more apparent to jeepney passengers and drivers who do not have the luxury of air conditioning. Packed like sardines in rickety unconditioned metal containers, they stop and go, stop and go, stop and go, until they finally reach their destination late, sweaty and covered in soot.

It's a carbon-emitting ordeal at its core. High taxes, low pay and atrocious public facilities.

noise, has a high headroom, comfortable seating and large windows. You may even pass the mile around and enjoy the view along with you on your way to work. And you're not cramped because, though the maximum seating is up to 16, in actual use, the driver regulates it to a comfortable five.

The PT you pay less than a long way because he's not filling up his tank every two hours and is obviously expensive but he can hardly afford. He also works less hours, gets a larger salary than you, is a modification spirit and will live longer than the diesel he breathes.

Sound like a silly dream? Not anymore. With the help of three headstrong, environmentally conscious entrepreneurs and a pioneering company, the dream has been made possible. Welcome the Electric Jeepney!

The new jeepney will have its inaugural run in Makati. Sole Electric Co. (Solentec), Congressman and former Benavente Independent Power Producer (IPP) are all partners in the Cleanest Friendly Cities Project, and Mayor Antonio Binay is their fan and very enthusiastic customer.

Solentec, headed by Paulo Pacheco, designed the E-Jeepney to be fully electric, driving, reliable, light, comfy, efficient and economical.

"It's very easy to drive," said Pacheco. "Because it's lighter, the jeepney driver who sits in and is the heavy diesel engine will feel a little relief of stress, but it's only taken a short while to get used to it."

Considering to have a good (and clean) jeepney component, the E-Jeepney was built on steel structure, resulting in a much quieter and smoother ride. "Silent, powered, jeepney activity was done last while riding," Pacheco said. "In the case of the electric jeepney when the driver steps on the brake, the engine really stops. It doesn't idle."

Smother rule

Without factoring in the driver's skills, discipline and temperament, the E-Jeepney results in a much smoother ride with its automatic transmission.

"It's a glorified, gold car," said Pacheco. "Have you ridden a gold car before? It's nice!"

Paulo Pacheco is an idealist. He has been in the business of renewable energy for three decades now, having started when nobody believed it was viable. He believes in sustainable energy. Now that the world is aware of global warming's adverse effects on the environment, he believes with pride the fact that he has been right to advocate pollution-free, renewable-energy driving.

"I've worried all over in a lower school's going on. I've seen all the pollution—China, United States, Asian countries... lots of Asian countries. It's scary especially in our climate."

The Electric Jeepney is nothing new. The technology has been around for decades, as can be seen in China and around the world. Nepal uses electric vehicles in their cities. Although the electric "gold car," there have been several attempts by other companies to sell the technology in jeepney operators, but they were either too expensive or the manufacturers were unable to provide maintenance and service.

The Solentec E-Jeepney will have a suggested retail price of P100,000 with a one-year warranty on the engine and a two-year guarantee on the battery. There is an option for a solar-powered roof that will recharge the battery, it costs an additional P15,000. Solentec will service the units and provide spare parts and accessories.

"This venture can be successful without the service aspect," Pacheco said. "We are here for the long-term sustainability of the project so we will provide the necessary system."

The E-Jeepney can run 120 kilometers on a single charge. If the driver travels at an average speed of 40 km/h, meaning, that translated to a three-hour working day that the driver can exceed his hours because the battery is not used up... it doesn't idle. The E-Jeepney can be parked for eight hours in Solentec's centrally located charging stations for a mere P150 per charge.

At the moment, there are 400,000 conventional jeepneys around the Metro
